MEMORIAL.—On the 20th of February in the home of B. G. Wheatley, in Mason Co., was a scene of sorrow, as the loved ones gathered around the bed of the daughter Amanda, and witnessed the close of her short life. For ten long weeks she had patiently suffered while physicians and relatives vainly tried to stay the destructive work of the fever; but the summons had come and so in the twenty-first year, in the bloom of youth, when life seemed beautiful and bright, she went away.

You shall be confronted by the Virginians who were the comrades of your immortal glory and who are your brothers forever.

You shall again see the women who nursed you back to vigor from the feebleness of wounds and want, from the wretched woes of your losses, and who pointed the dying gaze of your fellows to the heaven which stooped to enfold them.

Your eyes shall behold them selves the city which proudly wrapped herself in your patriotic flames, from which she has emerged a thing of beauty and joy always.

You shall revisit the battlefields which have been consecrated by your blood, and where, if you lost your country, you found a fame that fills the world.

Heartily helped by our city and her citizens, we are building for you a place of reunion in which ten thousand of you may make the welkin ring to the music of Dixie and to the chorus of the Rebel yell.

On some appropriate day of the Reunion you shall be part and parcel of the rearing of that monument which shall be to Jefferson Davis, not merely because he was your President and dwelt as such in the capital of your confederacy, but because he was the unspeakable type of that ineffable mankind which made the armies of the South.

Bank, were wedded in Cincinnati, at the Palace Hotel, April 15th. They are popular young people belonging to the most prominent families of that town. The bride is a handsome and accomplished young lady and a leader in social circles. The bridegroom is a young business man, who has many friends. There were no parental objections to the marriage, the trip to Cincinnati being for the pleasure of the young couple.

MRS. MIRANDA HORSEMAN'S DEATH.—Mrs. Miranda Horseman had been in declining health for about two years past, becoming seriously ill within the past few months, and was confined to her bed for several weeks prior to her death, which occurred at 3 o'clock Saturday morning, April 18th.

Her ailment was a stomach disease, that gradually sapped away her vitality.

She was tenderly nursed, had the best medical aid and every attention that kind friends could bestow, but their blessed ministrations could only smooth the pathway to the grave. She was a deeply religious lady, and, with the consolations afforded by her religious convictions, met death resignedly and cheerfully, her only regret at leaving this life being the parting with her family and friends.

Funeral services by Elder G. W. Porter, pastor of the Christian Church, were held at the family residence at three o'clock Sunday afternoon, after which the interment took place in the Owingsville Cemetery in the presence of a large assemblage of mourners and others who paid their last respects to the deceased. The pall-bearers were J. T. Kimbrough, John D. McIntyre, John A. Ramsey, Jas. T. Atchison, A. S. Thomas, L. D. Harris, C. W. Honaker, Jr., and J. J. Noblett.

Decceased was a daughter of Martin and Nancy Honaker, both deceased. She was born on Naylor's Branch, Bath Co., June 11th, 1846, and grew up to womanhood there and in the Wyoming vicinity. She was wedded to Richard Horseman on Oct. 26, 1864, and they resided in Wyoming precinct for several years. Their children were born of this union, both residing now in this town: Annie, wife of James F. Day, and Jefferson M. Horseman, a member in T. S. Shroud's establishment. Deceased removed with her family to this town in the latter part of 1888.

She was of a devoutly religious nature and from the time of her uniting with the Christian church in her girlhood she tried to live up conscientiously to its teachings. She was a good and true woman, warm-hearted to her family and friends and kind to all, being tenderly helpful in sickness, assisting the needy to the extent of her ability, generously solicitous for the welfare of all deserving persons, and a hospitable hostess to all who visited her cheerful home. She was liked and esteemed by a large circle of friends, who knew the kindness and gentleness of her nature, and who sincerely mourn her decease. Her bereaved family have the sympathy of their many friends in this sorrow, that fell upon them with crushing weight, notwithstanding they long realized that she was stricken with a disease that would probably prove fatal.

COMMITTEE TO PREPARE FOR THE SIXTH ANNUAL REUNION OF THE UNITED CONFEDERATE VETERANS.

RICHMOND, VA., March 25, 1896.—To the United Confederate Veterans Everywhere—Your Sixth Annual Reunion will be held at Richmond, Virginia, on the 30th June, 1st and 2d days of July next.

Widely scattered since the war by the ties of family and old-time firesides, by the demands of business, by your natural energies, and by the necessities of life, you are coming home—home to the city which is yours by the supreme tests of the rain of fire through which you went, and of the sea of blood through which you passed, on the mission of her and the common defence. You have inherited only the remnants of a ravenous ravage that was rampant everywhere in your land; because you had nothing left but the manhood from which you were inseparable. But the fatted calf shall be killed for you, and we shall be merry together, not because of pity for your sins, but because pride in your fam's demands.

Miss Sallie Warner went last week to visit the family of W. W. Powers, of Montgomery county.

Mrs. Piersall and Mrs. Shouse, of Salt Lick Creek, were guests of Mrs. Lou Warner one day last week.

Mrs. J. M. Brother returned Tuesday from a visit to her daughter, Mrs. S. S. Pinney, in Mt. Sterling.

Miss Dolie Hamilton returned home on Tuesday last, after a pleasant visit to relatives in Harrison and Bourbon counties.

Mrs. S. W. Bowden and little daughter Olive returned on Tuesday from a week's visit with her parents at Ol' Hill.

You shall again see the women who nursed you back to vigor from the feebleness of wounds and want, from the wretched woes of your losses, and who pointed the dying gaze of your fellows to the heaven which stooped to enfold them.

Your eyes shall behold them selves the city which proudly wrapped herself in your patriotic flames, from which she has emerged a thing of beauty and joy always.

TOBACCO REPORT.—EXPRESSLY FOR THE OUTLOOK, BY J. S. PHELPS & CO., PLANTERS WAREHOUSE, LOUISVILLE, KY.—April 18, 1896.—There was no noticeable change in our market this week. The demand was about the same, and prices showed no notable difference. The tobacco offered was generally very soft and heating up, making sales almost a necessity, and, still, the rejections were 1,014 hdds., which is thirty per cent. of the offerings. The receipts were only 1,28 hdds., against 3,151 for the same week last year. The sales for the year 1895 to date are 43,838, against 48,698 for the same date last year. The sales for 1896 to date are 63,955, against 65,685 for the same week last year. The sales this week are 3,733, against 4,684 the same week in 1895. Private sales this week, 376 hdds. Once more let us repeat our advice of last week: "Pry your tobacco in safe keeping order, and, as soon as you can, ship it, that you may be able to take advantage of any advance, above planting time. But if necessary hold till after July or later, for we do expect a better deal with an advance in values."

ANNUAL CLERKS.

Their Employment by Congressmen the Whole Year Round

Instead of During the Session, The Matter Had Been Considered in the Senate, But the House Conference Did Not Then Agree to the Proposition.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—The house committee on members will report Monday without recommendation the resolution providing for the employment of clerks to members the whole year round instead of during the session. The question was recently agitated anew in connection with the report of the conferees on the legislative, executive and other related committees. It was stated the committee had amended the bill so as to provide each member of that body not a chairman of a committee, 38 in all, a clerk at a salary of $1,500 a year. The house conferees had not agreed to the amendment but Gen. Bingham Franklin stated that he saw no outcome of the struggle in the conference by the house in the senate's proposition. There was a feeling in the house that its members should have the same assistance and the resolution referred to was introduced to secure it. The committee were evenly divided on the question, and it was decided to direct Chairman Smith to work it up for further recommendation, which he will do Monday. The members will then have an opportunity to secure an annual clerks for themselves if the majority of them have the courage to go on record as favoring the proposition. Mr. Cannon is of the opinion that the resolution will be passed, and that it will be voted for it. Mr. Abbot believes that it will be defeated. To provide these clerks at $1,200 a year, the same rate as their present pay, will cost $482,000 annually.

MASKED MEN

Attack and Kill Leo Hirth, a Wealthy Indianapolis Grocer.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 20.—Leo Hirth, a well-known and wealthy German citizen, living at 1020 West Washington street, where he conducted a large grocery business, was instantly killed at his home Saturday morning by two masked men who were discovered in his bed room and whom he saw entered into the rear part of the house.

Mrs. Hirth was awakened by a noise in the room, and raising herself in bed, saw two men standing in the doorway leading to another room. She gave the calling to her husband who, at once, drew his pistol by his side. At the same instant one of the men leveled a pistol at her and fired, the bullet entering the head board just above where she lay. A second shot followed an instant later and the two turned toward the rear of the house. Mr. Hirth was taken by the first shot, but did not realize it until he heard the second shot was fired, when he sprang from the bed and followed the intruders. He had a loaded revolver lying on a table within reach of his bed, but seems not to have thought of the weapon in his excitement.

The boot and shoe makers have put some quotations a shade lower since leather has fallen below the average a year ago and hides to the lowest average since November, 1894, have declined three per cent. This northern and northwestern demand is backward though the south has bought heavily. The size association states that 40 per cent of theничини and hands in the country are idle partly because of increasing Japanese competition. Several more woolen mills have shut down and some have reduced wages ten per cent, while many are working only half time, but recent developments have again raised the heavy undervaluations in the past, but tend to check future imports. The demand for goods does not improve. Somewhat more demand for staple cottons has been aroused by bargain prices, but the closing of many mills for a time is urged as necessary.

The boot and shoe makers have put some quotations a shade higher than a week ago. After remaining unchanged for many days, rumors of a coming crop failure in India reached the place and when they entered the house, Mr. Hirth was found upon the floor with a bullet at one shot, etc.

The officer sent Anderson to a police station to await an examination as to his sanity. Sunday he was found dead in his bed, having committed suicide by hanging himself to the bars of the grating of his cell.

Making his way to the home of a witness against him, Crawford shot him dead and would have served his wife the same way but she escaped by flight. He then went after a hostile planter, who saw him coming and mounting his horse rode off with the damage. Friday the sheriff and a posse took the field and reported Friday that the fugitive had already killed two of his pursuers.

The Quebec Central railroad will lose $100,000 a day, and the bridge at Brockville, a town of 3,000, is flooded. The telegraph office and other buildings, are abandoned. THE CONGRESS.

The General Pension Bill Will Be Called Up in the House,

To Follow by the General Deficiency and the Bankruptcy Bills. The Naval Appropriation Bill Will Probably Be Disposed of in the Senate.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—Monday is the last day on which it is in order to take up bills for immediate passage under suspension of the rules. That order will be followed by the general pension bill reported on Friday last. By the time of this bill discussion has tested the prevalent idea that good weather only was needed to bring general improvement of business. Everywhere there has been more retail buying and in some branches better demand at wholesale as the weeks has passed, but the republican state convention. We review day.

Failures for the past week have been 223 in the United States against 201 last year, and 26 in Canada against 34 last year. The sudden change from the general to the specific has tested the validity of the almost universal disposition to deal with unusual conservatism and not to anticipate future wants, and this has been especially conspicuous where combinations have been formed of prices advanced.

The Kentucky silverites are organizing to capture the State Democratic convention. They have a fine chance for success as long as the sound-money men remain as inactive as they are at present.

JUDGE WM. H. Holt and his friends are said to be somewhat out of humor because the Bradley people defeated him for delegate-at-large with S. E. Smith, the colored preacher of Owingsboro. The chagrin, disappointments and heartaches in the Republican party of Kentucky of late teach the boys that the game of politics is a desparate and mighty uncertain one.

BRADLEY barely won the game over McKinley at the Louisville State Republican convention last week. Bradley was instructed for first, McKinley second. The McKinley men say they are well pleased with the result. Kentucky will have 20 delegates at St. Louis. Bradley is continuing his campaign work, in order to make the best possible showing at St. Louis, hoping that the opposition to McKinley will ultimately combine on him. He probably feels that he has nothing to lose and any prominence that he gains will be that much help in his political aspirations.

Cameron and Blackburn. (Post)

The Washington correspondent of the Philadelphia Times quotes Senator Blackburn as follows:

I have no doubt that Senator Cameron will be nominated for the Presidency by the silver Republicans, and I believe that he will also be nominated by the general Republicans. There is no authority for the use of my name with that of Senator Cameron on a Presidential ticket. Nevertheless, I will frankly say that I am in no way connected with the Wm. H. Cameron. I have always found him to be honorable and upright with his friends, regardless of their political affiliations, and I see no reason why his Presidential aspirations should not be fostered and encouraged by the silver men of all parties.

"I know that he is popular with the Democrats and Populists in Congress, and I believe that his constant adherence to the theory of protection would bring him thousands of Republican votes, no matter on what ticket or on how many tickets he may be nominated. There has been no conference or consultation concerning Vice-Presidency, but I do not believe that I would decline to be a running mate with so good a man and so true a friend as Don Cameron."

This is certainly candid talk from Senator Blackburn, and it will be interesting to note how his silver friends in the Democratic party will relish the idea of Don Cameron for President, even when sugar-coated with Joe Blackburn for Vice-President.

Cameron and Blackburn, the puritan and the cavalier, the millionaire and the poor man, the taciturn and the talkative, the protectionist and free trader, the bitter radical and bitter rebel. This unique ticket ought to catch the eye of "a-comin' and a-gwine" and contribute to the gaiety of nations.

But in what way can such a ticket contribute to the success of the Democratic party?

In 1858 she lost her eyesight. She was married to Frank Duckworth in 1839. Seven children blessed this union, five of whom have been waiting for her on that bright and happy shore. Although mention was made in your last week's issue of the death of Mrs. P. R. Stone, I will ask this space in your columns for a tribute to her memory from one who had the pleasure of knowing her. When I first came to Bethel it was my good fortune to temporarily make my home with this family and being thus situated I was enabled to see her in her true character. To know her was but to admire her for her many Christian traits of character. Being by nature of a quiet, unassuming disposition, she won friends more by her own intrinsic worth than by mere meaningless words, deception being no part of her disposition.

A kind, tender, loving mother, her home was her heart's paradise, her family her pride, and nothing that she could do to minister to their wants was left undone, and "mammy," as the little boys affectionately called her, will be sadly missed by them all, for her whole heart's desire seemed to be to render home pleasant and agreeable. But God in his wisdom has seen fit to remove her in the very prime of her useful life, still there is the sweet consolation that in the home beyond the sky there is no parting or separation and that she waits on the golden shore to welcome those loved ones she has left behind.
